

Outlet: theculturetrip.com

Date: 10/18/2017

Title: The Best Boutique Hotels in Seattle

Link: <https://theculturetrip.com/north-america/usa/washington/articles/the-best-boutique-hotels-in-seattle/>

Jacklyn Grambush

Updated: 18 October 2017

For those who still want to feel at home while on vacation, boutique hotels may be a good move, as they tend to be more intimate than larger establishments. If this sounds up your alley, read on for the best boutique hotels in Seattle.

Hotel FIVE

This 116-room boutique hotel lies among Seattle's most popular attractions, including the Seattle Center, the Seattle Waterfront, and Pike Place Market. The hotel sits on Seattle's bus line and also offers a Bicycle Checkout Program; therefore, getting around is easy. This modern, stylish hotel with a tad of flair houses Max's Café for a convenient dining option. As a green hotel, it uses bath amenities that are 99% natural and biodegradable (from dispensers instead of small, disposable bottles), in-room recycling, and ceramic or glass dishware to eliminate the use of plastic and Styrofoam. Don't forget to check out Hotel FIVE's signature pineapple cupcakes.

Boutique hotel

2200 5th Ave, Seattle, WA, USA

+1 206 441 9785

The Maxwell Hotel

Guests in any of the Maxwell Hotel's 139 rooms will be sure to enjoy the fitness center, indoor pool, The Rock Wood Fired Kitchen, Pineapple Bar, and Pineapple Espresso. As one of the Staypineapple Hotels, the Maxwell offers environmentally conscious practices, the Bicycle Checkout Program, a shuttle service to connect you with some of Seattle's most popular attractions, the specialty pineapple cupcakes, and The Naked Experience™. From slippers and robes to towels, pillows, and bedding, everything that touches you is soft, fluffy, and fresh—so you can be, well, naked! "Kids have blankies, adults have The Naked Experience™."

Boutique hotel

300 Roy St, Seattle, WA, USA

+1 206 286 0629